

Fisheries

The only publication aimed exclusively at the fisheries professional

General Information

Fisheries was established in January 1976 by AFS, the oldest and largest professional society representing fisheries scientists. The magazine features peer-reviewed technical articles on all aspects of aquatic resource-related subjects, as well as professional issues, new ideas and approaches, education, economics, administration, and law. Issues contain features, essays, American Fisheries Society (AFS) news, current events, book reviews, editorials, letters, job notices, chapter activities, and a calendar of events.

Taylor & Francis Advertising Sales Contract Terms & Conditions

Applicability of Terms

These advertising terms shall apply to all print and electronic (online, e-mail, etc.) Advertisements (“Advertisements”) that are submitted to Taylor & Francis Group (“Taylor & Francis”), and which Taylor & Francis accepts for publication. The Advertiser, by submitting an Advertisement to Taylor & Francis, agrees to be bound by these Terms & Conditions. “Advertiser” shall be defined to include any agent, broker, or other intermediary submitting an Advertisement, as well as the ultimate customer whose products or services are advertised in the Advertisement. The laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall govern all contracts established between Taylor & Francis and the Advertiser.

Approval and Acceptance

All Advertisements are subject to review and approval by the journal’s editors in advance of publication. Taylor & Francis reserves the right to reject or cancel Advertisements at any time due to professional or ethical considerations. All Advertisements submitted for publication must comply with applicable U.S. and International laws, and may not be indecent, obscene, or defamatory.

Advertising Specifications

All Advertisements must comply with the relevant advertising specifications as noted on the pertinent rate card(s). Ad sizes, ad rates, closing dates, technical requirements are other miscellaneous conditions noted in rate cards shall govern all contracts and transactions, and supersede any other information published in previous rate cards, directories, media guides or rate and data services whether in print or online. Taylor & Francis will not be responsible or accept liability for errors that may occur due to Advertisements that do not meet all advertising specifications.

We accept specific advertisement position requests, though requested positions are not guaranteed unless stated as a paid position and formally granted. All advertisement positions are ultimately subject to the discretion of the layout designer. Space availability and the nature of a given issue’s layout contribute to the determination of where and how advertisements are positioned. Space availability varies by issue.

New copy/artwork for the next scheduled issue containing a contracted Advertisement must be submitted by the materials due date (see rate cards or Advertising Sales Representative for more information). If new copy/artwork is not provided by the materials due date, the most recent advertisement run in the same publication will be repeated.

Should Taylor & Francis be contracted to design or otherwise set copy submitted by the Advertiser for an Advertisement, proofs will be supplied to the Advertiser for review. Corrections must be requested (if applicable), and proofs must be approved in writing (via email is preferable). Corrections and approvals will not be accepted verbally.

Taylor & Francis is not liable to correct any errors or omission unless the Advertiser returns corrections to Taylor & Francis by the time Taylor & Francis stipulates that such changes be received. This is to enable Taylor & Francis to make corrections, issue new proofs and receive approval from the Advertiser before the relevant publication goes to press or is otherwise finalized prior to publication.

Taylor & Francis is not liable for proofs approved which contain errors or omissions. The ultimate responsibility for the review and approval of proofs lies with the Advertiser. Taylor & Francis will print what the Advertiser approves for press. Should the press deadline pass and a proof approval has not been received from the Advertiser, Taylor & Francis will proceed to press with the last version of the proof that was submitted to the Advertiser for review.

While all reasonable care will be taken to avoid mistakes, Taylor & Francis is not responsible for any errors or omissions caused by inaccurate or ambiguous copy instructions, the corruption of file formats during transmission to the publisher and/or printer, differences between Advertiser, Taylor & Francis and/or printer’s pdf settings, or due to any acts, circumstances or defaults beyond its control.

The Advertiser must ensure that any loose inserts are received by Taylor & Francis at least three working days prior to the “to press” date of the relevant publication. Taylor & Francis is not responsible for the omission of any inserts in the relevant publication where this timeframe is not met and fees in full shall still be payable in respect of the agreed inserts.

Payment and Cancellation Terms

Each insertion will be billed at the applicable rate for the size of the Advertisement. Written cancellation of a contract must be received thirty days prior to a subsequent monthly deadline. No cancellation will be accepted without written acknowledgement from Taylor & Francis confirming receipt. Otherwise, the Advertiser will be billed and agrees to pay for full insertion cost. Insertions made after printed space reservation deadline may not be cancelled.

Advertiser agrees to pay for Advertisements within thirty days of invoice issue date. No new Advertisements will be accepted for publication until the Advertiser’s outstanding invoice(s) is paid in full. Advertiser is responsible for payment in the event that their agent fails to pay invoice. It is strongly recommended, though not required, that Advertisers pre-pay for their Advertisements.

Advertising rates are commissionable to recognized agencies. Additional charges are non-commissionable. When establishing a contract, the frequency is determined by the number of insertions made within twelve months of the first insertion.

Please contact your Advertising Representative with any questions or concerns.
